CONDENSED STORIES.

An Honest Legislator Who Was Corrupted Against His Will.

Representative Jacob Deidler of Ohio has a farmer constituent who was elected to the Ohio legislature. He is a fine, honest old chap, with strict ideas as to right and wrong.

During the session a bill of great interest to certain corporations came up. There were active lobbies for and against it.

One day a lobbyist called on the farmer and offered him a sum of money to vote for the bill.

"Go away!" shouted the farmer. "You cannot corrupt me. I'll vote against the bill."

"But," replied the lobbyist, "if you will investigate you will find that the other side is offering much more for votes against the bill than I am for it, and you will at once be under suspicion of having taken money from them."

"GO AWAY!" SHOUTED THE FARMER.

"What can I do?" asked the perplexed farmer.

"I suggest that you stay away and do not vote at all."

The farmer stayed away. Next day the lobbyist met him and handed him $500.

"What's this for?" roared the farmer.

"That's for staying away and not voting on that bill I was speaking to you about."

The farmer sank limply in his chair.

"Great heavens," he said, "ain't there no way a man can be honest?"—Saturday Evening Post.

Senator Hoar's Marbleheader.

On one of Senator Hoar's annual pilgrimages to Marblehead with Worcester friends he expressed a wish to met some "genuine" Marbleheaders. While driving down Front street Uncle Bill High was espied, and Edward W. Doherty thought no more genuine Marbleheader could be found.

The carriage came to a halt while the two men were made acquainted. After a few remarks about the weather, fishing, etc., the senator, with a twinkle in his eye, asked, "Can we drive around to Gloucester this way?" pointing to the east.

Uncle Bill saw the twinkle and quickly answered, "Yes, if your horses are webfooted and you've got strong faith in the Almighty."

A Good Deal of Meaning.

Senator Knox at a reception in Philadelphia said of a certain speech:

"A good deal of meaning was subtly compressed in a very few words. It was like the speech that a young girl made to an aged millionaire.

"This aged man had proposed to the young girl and she had accepted his offer.

"A few days before the wedding the old gentleman, taking the hand of his prospective bride, said with tender earnestness:

"'Dear, do you love me for what I am, or for what I was?'

"'I love you, dear friend,' she replied, 'for what you will be.'"—American Spectator.

Conkling's Recipe For Success.

When the late Senator Gorman of Maryland first went to the senate Mr. Conkling and he happened to be seated together upon a sofa in the senate chamber while a well known statesman of the period occupied the floor. "Gorman," said Conkling, "you have come here in good season. Let me give you a sure recipe for success. Begin every speech you make with the assertion that you, and you alone, are the purest man that ever lived and end each with the declaration that you are the bravest." And when Gorman asked Conkling why he himself had not followed this rescript Conkling answered, with a sigh, "I learned it too late."—Reader.

AMERICAN IDEALISM.

It has frequently struck me in listening to impressions received in America by foreign travelers that the American in his deepest nature is a realist who strives for power and wealth and outer comfort; that the object of his life is to pile up the mighty dollar. People who speak thus seem to me blind to everything which lies below the surface. They seem to have studied the mills and factories of the industrial centers and to have neglected to read or understand the character of the American man or woman.

Since my first arrival in America I have held that the real spirit is idealistic and that the average individual American is controlled by idealistic impulses. Those who may contradict me cannot have sounded the depths of the philosophy of Ralph Waldo Emerson or studied the life and read the speeches of Abraham Lincoln and considered their far reaching effect on the American people.

In Lincoln's great character nothing can be more striking than the way in which he combined reality and the loftiest ideal with a thoroughly practical capacity to achieve that ideal by practical methods.—Baron Speck von Sternburg in Forum.

Lung Fishes.

Several examples of a zoological paradox—a fish which would be speedily drowned if placed in deep water—have just been added to the collection at Regent's park. This is the African walking fish, which spends the greater part of its existence upon the mud banks of tropical rivers. Its method of progression has been described by naturalists as of the "hop, skip and jump" variety, and when journeying inland, as it does over long distances, it climbs by means of the breast fins over the roots and even into the boughs of trees. These curious creatures, which belong to an important group known as lung fishes, form a connecting link with the higher forms of life, the air bladder being converted into what is practically a lung. When the rivers dry up in the hot season they bury themselves in the mud, breathing in the air like a frog or a newt. In Australia there are several varieties of lung fishes, one of the largest, which is much esteemed as an article of food, sometimes attaining a length of six feet.—London Graphic.

The Quivering Earth.

In his Bakerian lecture in London recently Professor John Milne said that in addition to the many tremors due to seismic, or earthquake, influences which delicate modern instruments detect, there are certain pulsations which seem to have some other origin. Some of these are diurnal and are probably due to the influence of the sun and the weather on the ground. In wet weather the sides and bottom of a valley carry a greater load than the bounding ridges. In dry weather the case is reversed. Even the transpiration of moisture by plants may produce perceptible effects upon the tilt of the ground. Thus the face of Mother Earth is almost as sensitive to external influences as the skin of a living creature.

Cost of Cotton Picking.

It requires something like 1,500,000 cotton pickers, each picking 400 pounds of seed cotton on an average for each picker and working 100 days, to pick a 10,000,000 bale crop. Of course, some pick more than 100 pounds of seed cotton and some less. There are days when, on account of rain, no cotton can be picked. The average of 100 pounds a day for 100 days is not far wrong as an estimate of the picker's work. At 60 cents a hundredweight the cost of picking a bale of cotton is $9. At 75 cents a hundredweight the cost is $11.25 a bale. Therefore the cost of picking the entire crop will range somewhere between $90,000,000 and $112,500,000.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Name "Flathouse."

The origin of the term "flat" as applied to an apartment is obscure. In recent years owners have objected to the word. A tenant was threatened with a suit for libel because he persisted in saying that he lived in such and such a flathouse. The landlord declared that the structure was neither a flathouse nor a tenement, but an apartment hotel. The repeated use of "flathouse" as a designation tended to lower the reputation of the place and drove away would be occupants.

Advantages of Esperanto.

Whatever may be the defects of Esperanto, if it comes to be a passport all over Europe, if it comes to aid the small merchant in establishing a foreign trade, if it comes to open a wealth of literature to all nations—then it will be an accomplishment which none can afford to neglect.—London Graphic.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

As Suggested From the Gallery of a Scotland Theater.

A provincial theater in the east of Scotland is much tormented by a wit, who is a regular attender and who insists on keeping up a running commentary on the play. Sometimes his remarks enliven a dull piece, and so the audience do not object to his presence. His latest hit occurred when a thrilling melodrama was being enacted.

The principal actor was laid aside suddenly by illness, and his part had to be taken up by his understudy, who was talented, but slender. At a critical moment in the play the princess faints and falls, when the hero, coming to her assistance, lifts her in his arms and carries her out.

The princess on this particular occasion was as heavy as she was lovely, and the slender understudy realized the magnitude of the task that was put upon him. When she fainted he leaned over her, but hesitated perceptibly.

The hesitation was not lost on the wit, who from his seat in the gallery broke the stilled hush by exclaiming in a thin, tremulous voice:

"Just tak' what ye can, my man, and come back for the rest."—London Tit-Bits.

A Consoling Thought.

"They say you are but the servant of the trusts," said the reproving friend.

"Well," answered Senator Sorghum, "the position has its advantages. Of course it's more agreeable to be the boss, but, after all, the servant isn't the one the grand jury goes after."—Washington Star.

Prudent Salesman.

Principal (to home coming salesman)—How did you come to sell that fellow Smith, who is on the verge of bankruptcy, so many things at such low prices?

Traveling Man—Well, I said to myself, "Now if he goes bankrupt we shan't lose so much money."—Wiener Salonwitzblatt.

The Ruling Passion.

Laden and Perspiring Stranger—Could you kindly tell me how far it is to the station?

Sportsome Native—About a full drive, two brassies and a put.—Punch.

No Great Trick.

Belle—The richest girl in the world is going to buy her wedding trousseau with only $250. Could you do as well as that?

Miss Passay—Why, yes; I could do better. If I were the richest girl in the world I could even buy a man.—Detroit Free Press.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery"—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

The Passing of Ed. Colgan.

The most popular man in all California, State Controller Colgan, is dead. He passed away at a sanitarium in San Francisco Tuesday, whither he had been taken from his Sacramento home for treatment two days previously. Ed. Colgan was known far and wide and his genial ways and thoughtfulness of others made him friends everywhere. His popularity among the masses was simply marvelous, as has been repeatedly demonstrated by the big majorities accorded him at each recurring election, for he had held office continuously for twenty years and at the recent election was re-elected for the fifth time State Controller. No cry of third term ever was raised against him. He was simply too popular for that and had he not been cut off in his prime could have held public office almost indefinitely.

The secret of Ed. Colgan's popularity was not unfathomable. It was a very simple secret. He was always good and true to his friends and they were always uppermost in his mind. As an example of this, just previous to the election, while sick even unto death, he wrote a personal letter to the editor of this paper requesting him to help out a a particular friend of his who was running on the State Republican ticket with him, with never a thought of himself. This was characteristic of the man all through his public life.

But Ed. Colgan was something more than a successful politician and a popular public official. There was a private side to his life, too, that was worthy of emulation. Surrounded by his once happy, but now stricken little family, he was a model husband and a kind and indulgent father, whose home was his kingdom and his wife its queen.

The Oliver Grand Jury has got Abe Ruef and his gang of boodlers and grafters going some. Two more indictments were found Tuesday. One was against boodling Supervisor Nicholas for accepting a bribe and the other against one Peter M. Duffey, a go-between, who will have to answer a charge of perjury for trying to screen Nicholas while testifying before that body under oath. The Grand Jury in its investigations the past few days has also brought to light that Joseph Rebstock, one of the Ruef gang of ballot-box stuffers, who was convicted and sentenced to San Quentin about a year ago, is on the payroll of the Board of Public Works of graft-ridden San Francisco and has been getting a rake-down of $100 per month ever since his conviction. Still Abe Ruef and Mayor Schmitz are being upheld by some "good" people in the metropolis who ought to get wise. These "good" people either lack the courage of their convictions or are as deep in the mud as the accused are in the mire. In any event, they are a downright detriment in bringing the guilty to justice. Such people are not confined to San Francisco alone. They infest every community.

"Casa Grande," a California pastoral, is upon our table. The author, Charles D. Stuart, resided for many years with his parents on the Stuart ranch between Sonoma and Kenwood, and is well known to all the old families of the valley. "Casa Grande" is an interesting novelette and engages the reader's attention from the opening to the concluding chapter. The scene is laid in the Sonoma Valley, and the heroine, "Belle Clark," is a typical girl of those early California days following the discovery of gold and the advent of the Gringos, which brought together all classes of society. None of the characters are overdrawn. Aside from its literary ability the book, which will undoubtedly be read extensively in the East, will bring Sonoma Valley to the notice of people there who never dreamed of its existence. In other words it is interesting, and what is more, in this commercial age it advertises to the outer world one of the least known but finest sections of the Golden State. The book is attractively bound and is published by Henry Holt & Co., New York.

Capt. Hanson, Secretary of the Eagles at Nome, Alaska, has spread his wings, seized $1500 belonging to the order in his talions and winged his flight elsewhere. The objective point of the thrifty bird is unknown.

Among the curiosities discovered in Kansas is said to be a devoted mother who wears better and more expensive clothes than her mother! It may be only a rumor.—N. Y. Commercial.

A man who has married five times says he has reasons to beleive that Solomon's wisdom was acquired by his association with his numerous mothers-in-law.—Chicago News.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

We will send you a sample free.

From a given amount of wood the
with the Hot Blast Down-Draft will produce twice as much heat as any other. It is because the Down-Draft consumes all the fuel and the gases which arise from it, whereas in other heaters the gases, which constitute one-half the burnable part of the fuel, escape unburned up the chimney. You can start a fire in ten minutes and hold it for 36 hours.
Remember, it is fuel cost which counts.
The Wilson saves one-half your fuel bill.

STATE CONTROLLER COLGAN IS DEAD.

Passes Away in San Francisco After a Long Illness.

The news of the death of State Controller Colgan was received here with genuine sorrow. He died in San Francisco Tuesday, having been taken from the State capital to that city for treatment last Saturday.

Mr. Colgan had been in poor health for a long time and his death was not entirely unexpected by his family and friends. He leaves a wife and three chidren, residing in Sacramento, and three brothers and a sister, who are residents of Santa Rosa, the latter being Mrs. Henry Baker.

Mr. Colgan was born in Santa Rosa in 1856 and grew up with the town. When a young man he learned the blacksmith trade, married Miss Mollie Smith, sister of Sheriff-elect Smith, and became identified in the course of time with the business and social advancement of that city.

In 1867 he was called from the forge in his modest little blacksmith shop to serve a two-years' term as Sheriff of this county. Two years later he was re-elected for another two years. After serving this latter term out the popular Sheriff was elected State Controller and since that time has been four times re-elected to the office. Had he lived to enter upon and complete the term of office to which he was re-elected at the recent election, he would have been continuously in public office for twenty-four years.

The deceased was an Odd Fellow, a Mason, an Elk, a Knight of the Pythian order, a Native Son and a United Workman.

Woman Arrested For Stealing Blankets.

Deputy Sheriff Ryan arrested a woman hailing from Petaluma one day this week, on a charge of stealing a number of blankets from a lodging house in that city. The woman, upon settling for the stolen blankets, was allowed to depart, the complainant evidently considering that the woman was justified in stealing any old thing to keep warm during the blizzard-like weather of the past week.

The New Grand Jury.

The new Grand Jury was impannelled in Judge Burnett's Court Monday. Those composing the jury are the following: James C. Mailer, Leopold Justi, G. T. Trowbridge, James W. Hall, Philip Stoffal, Milton M. Martin, Benj. C. Pressley, John D. Connolly, Arthur M. Renshaw, H. A. Gregson, Oliver O. Wescoatt, E. L. Hathaway, Daniel W. Sweeney, Jesse F. Thorsen, Adam L. Corrick, Wm. R. Ridenhour, John M. Hardin, Fred. Pohley and F. A. Raddatz.

James W. Hall was appointed foreman by Judge Burnett and George T. Trowbridge was selected as Secretary. A. C. McMeans will be the Grand Jury expert.

Made Happy for Life.

Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent at St Albans, W. Va., when his little daughter was restored from the dreadful complaint he names. He says: "My little daughter had St. Vitus' Dance which yielded to no treatment but grew steadily worse until as a last resort we tried Electric Bitters; and I rejoice to say, three bottles effected a complete cure" Quick, sure cure for nervous complaints, general debility, female weaknesses, impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by L. S. Simmons' drug store. Price 50c.

Sues For $650

Rachael J. Snyder, through her attorneys, Lippett & Lippett, has commenced an action in the Superior Court of this county against A. G. Martel to recover the sum of $650. The defendant was the lessee of "Buena Vista Castle" a couple of years ago, which he opened and conducted as a summer resort. The venture was an unprofitable one, however, and the suit brought by plaintiff is to recover back rent alleged to be due her from plaintiff.

RELIEF FUNDS AND THE GRAND JURY.

Its Members and District Attorney Pond Want to Know Some Things

Just after the earthquake of last April large sums of money were forwarded from Eastern sources to private individuals in Santa Rosa for the relief of its people. For some time it has been mooted about that some of these funds were never applied for the purposes intended and have never been accounted for. No suspicion attaches the general relief fund, which was properly handled and accounted for, but against private parties. Those men who are understood to have received these funds are to be haled before the Grand Jury to tell what has become of them.

District Attorney Charles H. Pond is investigating the matter. It is said that prominent men will be involved in the proceedings

Terrific North Wind.

The norther which set in several days ago has been the fiercest known for years in this section. Thursday night the wind blew a perfect hurricane and houses in the full sweep of the gale rocked to and fro like a ship at sea and many trees and considerable fencing fell before the gale in various parts of the valley.

Rain has been needed in this valley the past month and now it is needed badly. Little or no plowing has been done by the farmers and when rain does come they will have to hustle to get their crops in. Indications point to a drouth year all over the State. However a dry season has never yet proved disastrous to Sonoma Valley, as unlike the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, old Sonoma can always be depended upon for average crops, it matters not whether the season be a dry or a wet one.

A Year of Blood.

The year of 1903 will long be remembered in the home of F. M. Tacket of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood; which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tacket's lungs that death seemed very near. THOMAS SKELTON GLAISTER ESTATE.

Settlement of Account is Being Contested by Grandsons.

The contest over the settlement of the final account of the estate of the late Thomas Skelton Glaister came up before Superior Judge Seawell Thursday.

The contestants are Skelton and Middleton Glaister, grandsons of the deceased vineyardist, who are objecting to several of the items in the account, and who claim that they are not getting their proper share of the estate.

The executrix of the estate, Mrs. Blanche Wagner, a daughter, was represented by Robert A. Poppe of this place. The objecting heirs interests are being looked after by attorney Clarence F. Lea of Santa Rosa.

After listening to both sides to the controversy Judge Seawell took the matter under advisement.

The suit promises to be a long and bitterly contested one.

Little Peter Yenni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Yenni, was painfully scalded, on Friday afternoon of last week. The little fellow, while romping about the house, stumbled against his mother, who had a large pan of hot water in her hands and a quantity of it splashed out of pan into the child's face, severely scalding one side of it. Remedies were promptly applied to allay the pain and prevent disfigurement. The child at latest accounts was getting along nicely and in a short time will be none the worse for the accident.

SCORES KNOCK-OUT IN FIRST ROUND.

Cornelius' Phenomenal Punch Wins Him Another Victory

Over three hundred admirers of the "scrapping" game witnessed the fight between Emile Cornelius and Young Doyle in O'Rouke's Pavilion last Saturday night.

There were two preliminaries to the main event, both being declared draws.

The first of these was a four-round go between Pete Perasso of Sonoma and Herman Bullongia of El Verano. The boys went at hammer and tongs and the bout from start to finish was slug, slug and slug. The pillows they used, however, prevented them from murdering each other and the fast round closed with the honors about evenly divided and the referee declared it a draw. It was a bloodless scrap although "Bull" broke one of his fingers in the mix up.

The second preliminary was between Driscoll of Vallejo and Burke of San Francisco, featherweights. This bout was also declared a draw.

When the main event was announced there was much enthusiasm manifested among the fight fans as Cornelius and Doyle both had their admirers among the throng.

At the call of time the men sprang to the center of the ring. There was a hasty hand shake, then both men sprang back and sized each other up. There was a feint or two, then Cornelius shot out his right and caught Doyle on the jugular knocking him down. Doyle arose and was again bowled over with a right hand swing to the jaw. He arose groggy and before he became firmly set on his pins Cornelius ripped in another to the jaw and sent Doyle down and out. So terrific was the punch that he was hurled clear through the ropes and landed among the spectators on the north side of the ring. It was a clean knock-out and Cornelius was given the decision.

This is the ninth or tenth fight in which Cornelius' terrible knock-out punch has done the business in either the first or second round. He has never yet been defeated and has won all his fights with one exception, that was a draw with De Rose of Santa Rosa, whom he subsequently knocked-out in the first round of a bout that was to go ten rounds.

Cornelius' next fight will be in Santa Rosa on Thanksgiving Day.

A Union Thanksgiving Service.

At the Congregational Church Thursday at 10 a. m there will be a sermon by the pastor, Rev. Cragin. Let all come together, responsive to the call of President Roosevelt and Governor Pardee and the call of thankfulness from our own hearts.

Who Will Secure the Plum?

There are quite a number of aspirants for Judge Burnett's place as Superior Judge of this county, when he resigns the office the first of the year to assume his duties as one of the Appellate Judges to which he was elevated at the recent election. Among those whose names are mentioned are J. M. Thompson, ex Judge Barham, Jas. W. Oats, J. C. Sims, and District Attorney Pond of Santa Rosa and Robert A. Poppe of this place. It is conceded that if Governor Pardee makes the appointment the latter can have the office if he wants it. On the other hand, if Governor-elect Gillett fills the vacancy the office will go to a Santa Rosa man.

What It Costs to Run for Office.

In compliance with the law the following statements of election expenses have been filed with the County Clerk by candidates for the various offices in this county at the recent election:

Dan H. Lafferty, coroner, $180; M. D. Hopkins, assessor, $339.18; F. L. Blackburn, coroner, $156.25; Clarence F. Lea, district attorney, $333.15; C. A. Pool, auditor, $303.75; Minnie Coulter, superintendent of schools $283; F. M. Collins, tax collector, 300.75; F. G. Nagle, recorder, $347; B F. Ballard, recorder, $295.75; G. B. Baer, county clerk, $152.95; DeWitt Montgomery, superintendent of schools, $338.25; Glenn E. Murdock, treasurer, $333.55; W. F. Price, Senator, $169.75; Joe D. Cox, surveyor, $119.50; J. K. Smith, sheriff, $348; C. O. Dunbar, Senator, $77.50; Fred L. Wright, county clerk, $392; F. E. Dowd, assessor, $324.50.

In Time of Peace

In the first few months of the Russia-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those who, so to speak, "have shingled their roofs in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Game of Fisherman Furnishes Fun and Exercise.

To play the game of fisherman mark off two lines across a clear piece of ground about twenty-five feet apart. Then let all the children count out to see who is to be the fisherman.

The fisherman must stand between the two lines of players and repeat the following rhyme:

Swim, little fishes, from the river to the sea!
Swim, little fishes—one, two, three!

At the word "three" all the children, or fishes, must run across his territory to the land beyond their opponent's line while they run he (the fisherman) must catch as many as he can.

Those who are caught now become fishermen and help him catch more fish. The game goes on as before, the fishermen all repeating the rhyme in concert until all the fishes have been caught.

Fierce Sea Monster.

Have you ever heard of a hammer headed shark? This fish is distinguished by the singular shape of its head, having the appearance of the head of a hammer. The eyes are gray and projecting, and when the fish is irritated the colors of the iris are like a flame. The most common species are long and slender in body, which is gray, and the head is black. It is usually about eleven or twelve feet long and weighs up to 500 pounds. It is bold and greedy for blood and is often found around ships even near the coast.

It has not the strength of an ordinary shark, but is more ferocious and can strike with as much force. The sailors frequently have hairbreadth escapes from this dangerous creature of the seas.

Perpetual Motion.

Some experimenter every now and then tries to persuade himself and the public that he has discovered perpetual motion. Now, perpetual motion means the motion of a machine or a device that would continue forever or until it wore out without the aid of any force external to itself. A machine of this kind is an impossibility. Friction and the resistance of the air are constantly opposing the action of machinery, and as matter, on account of what is called inertia, cannot generate power that will make up for this loss every machine must in time come to rest, unless some external force, such as wind, water or steam, keeps acting on it. Perpetual motion is, therefore, impossible.—Chicago News.

To Make a White Flower Red.

Changing a white flower into a red one is a performance suitable for the garden or the drawing room. The dry petals of a white rose or any other flower must be first delicately and as far as possible uniformly sprinkled with aniline crystals. The rose should be shaken so as to leave as little as possible visible. What there is will be only trifling specks. By bringing to play on it a spray of eau de cologne or other spirit from a vaporizer—those connected with a finger ring enable the performance to be most mysteriously accomplished—the delicate white petals can be promptly suffused with a rich crimson blush.

Sacred Fires of India.

The sacred fires of India have not all been extinguished. The most ancient which still exists was consecrated twelve centuries ago in commemoration of the voyage made by the Parsees when they emigrated from Persia to India. The fire is fed five times every twenty-four hours with sandalwood and other fragrant materials combined with very dry fuel. This fire, in the village of Oodwada, near Bulsar, is visited by the Parsees in large numbers during the months allotted to the presiding genius of fire.

A Wonderful Spinner.

The silk spider of Madagascar spins threads of a gold color and strong enough, according to Maindron, to hang a cork helmet by. Small textures woven of these threads are used by the natives for fastening on sunshades and for other purposes.

Shelley and Butter Cakes.

Shelley called on Southey one afternoon and found the latter and his wife at tea. Southey evinced such an appetite for buttered cakes that Shelley was shocked and at last broke out with: "Southey, I'm ashamed of you! It's horrible to see a man like you greedily devouring this nasty stuff!" Mrs. Southey came to her husband's defense with a long tirade, during which Shelley, abashed, put down his face and curiously scanned the cakes. He broke off a bit and ventured to taste it. Then he began to eat as greedily as Southey himself. When he went home his verdict on the cakes was summed up in the report of Harriet Westbrook, to whom he was engaged: "We were to have hot tea cakes every evening 'forever.' I was to make them myself and Mrs. Southey was to teach me."

The Great Problem of Tomorrow.

A scientist tells of the energy the earth receives from the sun: "When the sun is nearly overhead he delivers power at the surface of the earth at the rate of more than two horsepower for each square yard of surface. Even after deducting the loss occasioned by the absorption of the earth's atmosphere, it is still true that each square yard receives when the sun is shining the equivalent of one horsepower working continuously. This means there is delivered on each square yard an energy able to lift a weight of 33,000 pounds one foot in one minute, and this power is continuous. On the broad, sunlit plains of Arizona the sun delivers an equivalent of mechanical energy which, expressed in horsepower, would seem almost infinite. A small part of it would suffice for the whole world's work. Why is it not set to doing this work? This is the problem of tomorrow.

"There is nothing sadder than the word 'farewell,'" said the sentimentalist.

"Yes," answered the cynic, "especially when it appears in an opera singer's advertisement."—Washington Star.

Sells More of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than all Others Put Together.

The following letter from a locality where Chamberlai 's Cough Remedy is well known sh ws by the unprecedented demand for it that the medicine sells on its own merit. Mr. Thos. George, a merchant at Mt. Elgin, Ontario, says: "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell as much of it as I do of all other lines I have on my shelves all put together. Of the many dozens sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I can personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and given it to my children and always with the best results."

"No."
"Why, I heard she had."
"No; she says he's her ideal."—Philadelphia Press.

There is no Reason

why your baby should be thin and fretful during the night. Worms are the cause of thin, sickly babies. It is natural that a healthy baby should be fat and sleep well. If your baby does not retain its food, don't experiment with colic cures and other medicine, but try a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and you will soon see your baby have color and laugh as it should.

THE ENEMY BEHIND.

How a Hunter In Africa Was Saved by His Eyeglasses.

In writing of his hunting adventures in Nubia in Harper's, Captain T. C. S. Speedy tells how he was saved from the attack of a native by the reflection in his glasses.

"After a slight refreshment I spread my sheepskin rug a couple of yards off and, turning my back to the fire, kept a lookout in front, as owing to the precipitous stony cliff that rose on three sides of our camping ground I found it was next to impossible for any one to enter except in that direction. Suddenly a log which had been charred quite through fell asunder, throwing out a large shower of sparks, while a bright flame shot upward. To my surprise I beheld before me an extraordinary sight which held my attention fixed, though for a moment I did not realize what I saw. Immediately before my eyes was the diminutive figure of a native, evidently, from his mop of hair, one of the Hadendoa tribe, but only about two inches in height, spear in hand, which he was quivering up and down as if on the very verge of striking a blow, a fiendish grin distorting his countenance. My astonishment lasted but an instant. I quickly perceived that this was the reflection in my spectacles of an enemy behind me, who must have slipped in while I was dozing, and that I was the object of the aim which in another second would have proved fatal. There was not time either to rise or turn, but, flinging myself backward, I seized the savage by his foot and, pulling him forward, happily upset him on his back and closed with him.

"The excitement and breathlessness of the struggle prevented me from calling out, especially as I had at first great difficulty in retaining my hold of my foe, owing to the slipperiness of his greasy skin, but the sand which stuck to him as we rolled over and over together soon enabled me to obtain a better grip. Luckily in our rough and tumble contest we knocked up against one of my hunters, who, although sound asleep till that instant, was on his feet in a twinkling and quickly settled the matter by slipping a cord around the elbows and legs of the man, who was thus secured."

Always Was Sick.

When a man says he always was sick—troubled with a cough that lasted all winter—what would you think if he should say—he never was sick since using Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Such a man exists.

Mr. J. C. Clark, Denver, Colorado writes: "For years I was troubled with a severe cough that would last all winter. This cough would leave me in a miserable condition. I tried Ballards Horehound Syrup and have not had a sick day since. That's what it did for me." For sale at Simmons Drug Store.

A Kipling Correction.

Rudyard Kipling dined on one occasion with a party that included several other well known writers—a fair proportion of men and women who knew something about literature and a large number who knew little and made up for their lack of knowledge with pretense. Several of the last described kind started a useless discussion concerning spellings, pronunciations, etc., and one, firing his remark straight at Kipling, said, "I find that 'sugar' and 'sumac' are the only words beginning with 'su' that are pronounced as though beginning with 'sh.'"

Bored though he was, Kipling's politeness did not desert him, and, assuming an expression of interest, although his eyes twinkled behind his glasses, he asked, "Are you sure?"—Chums.

Act Quickly

Look out for that "rainy day!"

It comes sooner or later for so many—we can't tell to-day who may want on the morrow.

Prepare now while you are able for any misfortune that may overtake you. Don't run any risks.

Here is something that will help you provide for the rainy day—an investment that carries with it unusual benefits and proves its value from the minute you buy the stock.

Smith's Cash Store is well and favorably known all over the West. Its reputation is of the best and in volume of business it is making tremendous strides forward every year. Some five years ago the stock was selling for $5.00 a share. Today the price is $10.00 a share. These figures demonstrate what a thriving institution is this biggest Mail Order House on the Pacific Coast.

Each share of stock is guaranteed to earn 6 per cent a year. But the greatest benefit is derived by the stockholder from the discounts given to the holders of five or more shares of stock. You can buy anything to eat, use or wear at the same price the goods would cost your local dealers. We call them "Owner's Prices."

Suppose you buy goods that altogether cost $50 at our wholesale rate. If you are a stockholder you get a discount amounting to $2.50, and your bill is only $47.50. The saving you will make in one year in addition to the earnings will in all probability more than cover the investment.

Year after year you will be effecting big savings. But should hard times knock at your door—and you must not be too sure that something of that sort will not happen—think what it will mean to you to be able to buy everything at cost prices. It might be the very thing that would help you to survive the period of distress.

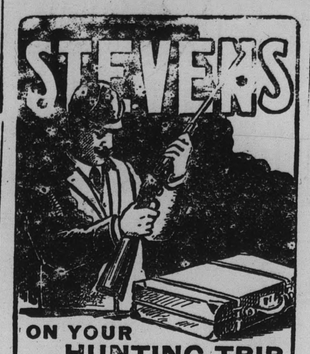

We are increasing the amount of our capital stock. We are telling you about the stock because we think you ought to invest for your own sake. You couldn't buy stock in any other concern that would pay you so well.

It will not be long before the price of the stock is advanced. You know that means there are not many days remaining in which you can take advantage of this great offer.

For your convenience we are printing a coupon which you ought to fill out—it does not obligate you in any way. Send it at once.
